

Alex More Speaks with The National Law Journal on the Impact to Cryptocurrency Litigation

September 24, 2024

Following the announcement that the Fed cut interest rates for the first time in four years, The National Law Journal turned to Alex More, head of Carrington Coleman's litigation team, to discuss the impact to cryptocurrency litigation. According to Alex, the cut could end up a boon for the industry, with "better deal flow, better investments and stronger pricing for digital asset tokens."

To read the full report, click here: <https://lnkd.in/gVhaPMeF>