May 20, 2021

Carrington Coleman has been selected by the prestigious Chambers USA legal guide among Texas' top firms for its commercial litigation practice.

According to Chambers, the firm was selected based upon its handling of a wide variety of matters, including breach of contract, oil & gas, securities, employment, and construction disputes, in trials, appeals, and alternative dispute resolution.

One source interviewed by Chambers described the firm's litigation team as "cohesive and dedicated to the client's success."

The firm, one said, is dedicated to finding "client-oriented solutions and problem solving."

Managing Partner Monica Latin and Partner Alex More also earned individual recognition for their litigation work.

Mr. More earned praise from clients as a "pragmatic thinker" who "combines legal knowledge with strategic acumen" for his work related to fiduciary duty, securities and fraud-related disputes.

Calling Ms. Latin a "brilliant strategist with very strong analytical powers and superb litigation skills" for her work on complex commercial disputes at the trial and appellate levels, another client concluded: "She is a great litigator."

The Chambers USA guide is produced by London-based Chambers and Partners, known worldwide for its thorough guides to the legal profession. Selection is based on thousands of attorney and client interviews to identify lawyers who demonstrate top technical legal ability, professional conduct, client service, commitment, and other key qualities.
